THE GENEVA COMMISSION.

Description of the Tribunal-Drift of the Discussion.

GENEVA, June 17.- The question of adjournment will occupy the Tribunal today, and probably longer, as the arguments will be heard to-day, Delicate termined hastily. The English case was

It was judged wise to accept this proposition and Monday was apparent that neither government has ed the baton. Paxton is ill. thought it safe to trust the case altogether to its agents here, but each keeps up such a constant communication by telegraph that in fact that the real agent for England is Earl Granville and for America,

Secretary Fish. It is not strange that the Governments we contemplate the monstrous absurdity that neither case is in the hands of the great lawyers that are here on both sides, but in the hands of official underlings, the third rate men of the departmental routine. As the English have uncompromisingly adhered to the determination not to present papers, it is natural to suppose that | Appeal. Americans will also adhere to their views that the English are not properly in Court, and that they ask the Court to wander from its jurisdiction on a point for which the treaty makes no provision. If the English insist that they are properly in court, an important consequence will follow, for if they are in Court they are bound to rematter on what point. Possibly, therefore they would suddenly find themselves inthe diplomatic propriety and respect due to the tribunal proceedings on Monday. This will however depend on the latest dispatches from Earl Granville, to the English Agent. The Americans are fully instructed in every step; but the English with what result. They are availing themselves of every chance to ascertain the temper of the Court, and how far the Americans will go in extending the length of time for adjournment.

ROME, June 17.—The Twenty-sixth an-niversary of the accession of Pope Pius the IX to the Pontifical Chair was celebrated in this city yesterday in a becoming manner. Four thousand persons representing all nations of the earth proceeded to the Vatican and presented congratulatory addresses to his holiness, who, on appearing before his visitors, was greeted with loud cheers.

SECOND GRAND GIFT CONCERT

In the great hall of the Public Library building, if Louisville, Ky., on Saturday, September 28, 1872.

This magnificent hall, known as Weisiger Hall, is the largest, most centrally located, and best arranged for large and fashionable audiences of any in Louisville, and is fitted up in superb style. The building has a front of 168 feet on Fourth street by a depth of 200 feet, four stories in hight, and was recently purchased for the Public Library at a cost of $210,000. Three large rooms are now fitted up for a library, and contain about 20,000 volumes and a museum of 100,000 specimens, now open and free to the gratuitous use and enjoyment of all citizens of every State in the Union. It is the purpose of the Trustees, by the GRAND GIFT CONCERT now announced, to raise the money with which to pay the balance of the purchase money due upon the Public Library building, to enlarge the li-brary, and to so endow the institution as to make it self-sustaining and forever beyond the necessity of calling upon any individual who uses the books for the contribution of a single cent towards its support.
